CHAPLAIN'S LECTURE SERIES

Rev. Dr. Erich Thompson
Spirituality and Holy Space

TUE. SEP. 10

3 p.m., COCHRANE COMMONS

Join the Rev. Dr. Erich Thompson, owner of Sacred Spaces and designer of the chancel furniture for our new sanctuary. His experience as an ordained Presbyterian minister and as a lifelong student of historical design uniquely informs the role of furniture design in sacred spaces. Erich will be sharing aesthetic and theological factors in the design process, and he will be listening to our needs, hopes and faith as he begins his work.

The Rev. Dr. Erich Thompson graduated from Union Presbyterian Seminary in 1987. He served congregations in Virginia and North Carolina, and took up woodworking as a hobby. The hobby got out of hand. Soon his backyard shop was overwhelmed. As word got out about his designs and his works, congregations along the East Coast contacted him to take on their projects, too. Now his work is exhibited across the eastern U.S. and is making inroads in the Midwest.

Tickets are not required for this free event.

Rev. Dr. Lynn McClintock
Living with Loss
TUE. SEP. 24
3 p.m., COCHRANE COMMONS

This practical workshop will look at how loss affects us, how we can live meaningful lives in the midst of loss, and how we can support others who are experiencing loss. Participants will leave with a better understanding of bereavement and self-care, as well as some specific tips for helping others who are grieving. Residents, staff and family members are encouraged to attend.

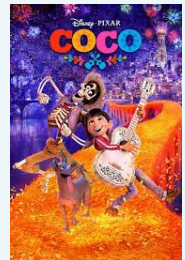

Dr. McClintock is Westminster Canterbury's Director of Pastoral Care. As a pastor and former pastoral counselor, Dr. McClintock has supported the grieving for over 30 years. Perhaps more importantly, she continues to learn from her own losses and teaches from the perspective of being a fellow traveler with others on the journey to healing.

Tickets are not required for this free event.

CHAPLAIN'S LECTURE SERIES

Dr. James Hall
Are There Things That God Can't (or Won't) Do?

TUE. NOV. 12, 19 & 26

3 p.m., COCHRANE COMMONS

All three of the Abrahamic traditions teach that it is idolatry to worship anything but God. They also say that anything that is lacking or flawed in any way is not God. So it would seem that the proper target of worship must be unlimited in power, knowledge and virtue. So God knows everything, can do anything and is good through and through. Is this right, or are there some hidden glitches in it? Sorting this out is our goal here. Join us, but watch out for some bumps in the road!

Resident Dr. James Hall, a graduate of Johns Hopkins University, Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, and the University of North Carolina, is an accomplished author and Thomas Professor of Philosophy (Emeritus) at the University of Richmond where he taught for 40 years.

Tickets are not required for these free events.

DAVID F. PETERS LECTURE

Dr. Michael Bos
Meeting Faith to Faith

WED. OCT. 30

7:30 p.m., SARA BELLE NOVEMBER THEATER

We have moved from an awareness of other religions to living in the midst of people of other religious traditions. This means we now meet one another face to face, but we often struggle with how to meet faith to faith. Dr. Bos will explore how we can engage one another through the heart of our traditions rather than setting our faith aside.

Dr. Michael Bos is the senior minister of Marble Collegiate Church in New York City. He serves as chaplain of the Collegiate School, where he also teaches Islam. He has written two books with coauthor, Dr. William Sachs: A Church Beyond Belief: The Search for Belonging and Religious Future and Fragmented Lives: Finding Faith in an Age of Uncertainty. He established an interfaith center in the Arabian Peninsula and developed programs with institutions such as Princeton Theological Seminary, the Center for Interfaith Reconciliation, and the U.S. State Department. Working with the U.S. Embassy and government of Oman, he helped establish a first of its kind program on religious diplomacy in the Middle East for the top chaplains in the U.S. armed services. For his work in bringing together Christians, Muslims, and Hindus in Oman to aid low-income workers, he received the U.S. Ambassador's Award for Community Service. He also received the Interfaith Champion Award from the Muslim-Jewish Solidarity Committee in New York.

Tickets are required for this free event.
